

TAMARA CALLAHAN

Family Van

Co-Founded with Ramona Hamblin

1995 Global Fellow

BIG BOLD IDEA

Increase access to health and improve healthy behaviors by providing free culturally and linguistically appropriate health services to our clients in the community.

ORGANIZATION OVERVIEW

Designed in collaboration with community partners over twenty years ago, the Family Van is a mobile clinic that increases access to health care and improves the health status of residents in Boston's most underserved communities. The Family Van's charter is to empower community members through improved health literacy and preventive screenings to live healthier lives, while establishing an environment of encouragement and confidence. Our team is comprised of a diversity of members, from health educators to HIV counselors, registered dieticians to volunteers, as well as other health professionals and partners. The Family Van was co-founded by Nancy E. Oriol, Cheryl L. Dorsey, Tamara Callahan, and Ramona Hamblin.

PERSONAL BIO

Tamara L. Callahan, M.D. is an Associate Professor of Clinical Obstetrics and Gynecology at Vanderbilt University School of Medicine.

Issue area

Health and Healthcare

Organization/Fellow Location

Nashville, United States

Organization Structure

Nonprofit

VISIT WEBSITE

