

ERRON AL-AMIN

Young Women's Network

1992 Global Fellow

PERSONAL BIO

1992-1994: Erron, while studying at Stanford, founded the Young Women's Network, an education and advocacy group for young South African women as part of the Joint Enrichment Program in post-Apartheid South Africa. Since then she participated in various sustainable actions within University of California, Berkeley, where she studies for her M.B.A.: Social Responsible Business, Black Student Business Association, and Women in Leadership. After her studies, post-1998, Erron followed a career in financial services.

Organization/Fellow Location

Novato, United States

Impact Location

Africa

South Africa

Organization Structure

Nonprofit

in