

JESSICA BUDNITZ

Child Advocacy Program

2002 Global Fellow

BIG BOLD IDEA

Inspire and prepare Harvard Law School students to become change agents in the field of child advocacy.

ORGANIZATION OVERVIEW

The Child Advocacy Program (CAP) at Harvard Law School is committed to advancing children's interests through facilitating productive interaction between academia and the world of policy and practice, and through training generations of students to contribute in their future careers to law reform and social change.

PERSONAL BIO

Jessica Budnitz is a child advocacy consultant. She co-founded the Child Advocacy Program (CAP) at Harvard Law School (HLS), where she served as a Lecturer on Law and Managing Director of the program for nearly 10 years. Before CAP, Jessica received an Echoing Green Fellowship to establish Juvenile Justice Partners (JJP), a child-focused legal clinic in Cambridge, Massachusetts, which helped lay the groundwork for the establishment of CAP. She is a recipient of HLS's Gary Bellow Public Service Award and the YWCA of Cambridge Award for Outstanding Women. For many years, Jessica served as a Prelaw and Public Service Residential Tutor in Leverett House at Harvard College, where she advised hundreds of Harvard undergraduates and alums. She holds degrees from Harvard Law School and Duke University.

Organization/Fellow Location

San Francisco, US

Impact Location

North America

United States

Organization Structure

Nonprofit

VISIT WEBSITE ➔