

MATTHEW OROSZ

STG International

2012 Global Fellow

BIG BOLD IDEA

Create sustainable energy solutions for the developing world that simultaneously power remote areas, promote growth, and mitigate climate change.

ORGANIZATION OVERVIEW

STG International is a 501(c)3 organization dedicated to the premise that innovative, affordable, renewable energy is the only solution to the growing tension between the aspirations of the developing world and the global threat of climate change.

PERSONAL BIO

Matt Orosz is an inventor and entrepreneur focused on overcoming the challenges to building sustainable energy infrastructure in underserved areas. A former Peace Corps volunteer in Lesotho, Matt's experience living without electricity or running water catalyzed his study of engineering and the foundation of STG International, an organization that works to build capacity for solar micro-utilities.
