

MICHELLE MCKINLEY

Amazonian Peoples' Resources Initiative

1995 Global Fellow

BIG BOLD IDEA

Improve reproductive health conditions in the Peruvian Amazon.

ORGANIZATION OVERVIEW

The Amazonian Peoples Resources Initiative (APRI) is a University of Kansas-based project aimed at improving reproductive health conditions in the Peruvian Amazon.

PERSONAL BIO

Michelle McKinley is an Associate Professor of Law at the University of Oregon Law School. She teaches Law, Culture & Society, Immigration Law, Public International Law, and Refugee & Asylum Law. Michelle attended Harvard Law School, where she was Executive Editor of the Harvard Human Rights Journal and graduated cum laude in 1995. Upon graduating from law school, she served as the Managing Director of Cultural Survival, an advocacy and research organization dedicated to indigenous peoples. In 1995, with support from Echoing Green, Michelle founded and directed the Amazonian Peoples' Resources Initiative, a community based reproductive rights organization in Peru where she worked for nine years as an advocate for global health and human rights. Michelle has published extensively on international law, human rights, reproductive rights, and immigration issues.

Organization/Fellow Location

Eugene, United States

Impact Location

South America

Peru

Organization Structure

Nonprofit